Clean Harbors Honored by CSX for its Commitment to Chemical Safety

Dedication to the safe transport of hazardous chemicals praised

NORWELL, MA – April 14, 2011 – Clean Harbors, North America’s leading provider of environmental, energy and industrial services, today announced that it has received a 2010 CSX Chemical Safety Excellence Award (CSEA), which highlights Clean Harbors’ commitment to chemical safety. The award will be presented today at a ceremony in Charlotte, N.C.

“We are honored to once again be recognized by CSX for the safe transportation of chemicals,” said John Ross, Clean Harbors Vice President, Central Logistics. “Safety is a fundamental part of our culture as expressed through our SafetyFirst! program. We practice it at our facilities, on customer sites and throughout all of our road and rail transportation activities. This commitment extends to all of our transactions with CSX, which is also dedicated to handling and transporting products securely and safely to protect communities and the environment.”

“CSX is pleased to recognize Clean Harbors’ commitment to safely transporting its goods,” said Clarence W. Gooden, Executive Vice President, Sales and Marketing and Chief Commercial Officer, CSX. “Safety is a way of life at CSX, and we are proud to partner with customers like Clean Harbors to ensure that every ton of freight is shipped as safely and as efficiently as possible.”

CSEA specifically recognizes those companies that shipped 600 or more railcars during 2010 on CSX, with no non-accidental hazardous material releases through the entire year. Winners come from many different industries, including the chemicals, fertilizer, agriculture and metals merchandise commodity markets as well as from emerging markets.
